SINCE 2009

Connecting Japanese craftsmanship with the future.

With Japanese crafts 「工芸 | Kougei」

「工 | Kou」 refers to the work of making things.

「芸 | Gei」 is the ability of moving people's hearts and minds with skills acquired through wholehearted dedication.

In this country there is a “spirit of craftsmanship” that we want to share with the world.

It encompasses uncompromising standards of quality, a sincere commitment to the craft.

It goes beyond what we think of as “traditional crafts”;

this spirit can be found everywhere: from agriculture, forestry and fisheries that engage with nature, to industrial manufacturing.

And yet, unfortunately, there are many instances where the value of this spirit is not fully recognized.

It is our heartfelt mission, “Kokorozashi”, to combine our “power of creativity” with this sense of spirit and artistry, taking Japanese craftsmanship on the next steps to a secure future.

Our engagement with craftspeople goes deeper than new brand design.

We collaborate with the creators of these crafts through meaningful discussions, refining their product offerings.

We become passionate advocates, selling these products and communicating their brands' values.

Let's envision a new world together, one that has not yet been seen before.

Paper Incense

P-05 - 06

Ku

An innovative form of smell that paints the air

Ku is a washi (Japanese paper) that releases fragrance without a need to be burned. Designed collaboratively by the incense masters in Awaji Island, Ku has been created by delicately mixing the natural perfumes within the paper and then spreading it out in a thin layer to dry. Now you can enjoy the Japanese culture of "soradaki": the pleasure of enjoying a faint distant bouquet that floats between spaces. Whether it be on the walls designing the space you are in, or included within letters to loved ones so as to share delightful scents, or to simply enjoy the surroundings by burning a subtly sophisticated incense, Ku becomes an essential soothing part of your daily life.

Pottery

P-10

TANBA pottery

Contemporary vessels for daily life

As one of Japan's Six Ancient Kilns, the Imada area of Tamba-Sasayama city is home to fifty-two kilns, where you can still see smoke coming from their climbing kilns. With a history dating to about eight hundred years, the kilns were recognized as an official traditional craft in Japan under the name "Tamba ware" in 1978. Every May, the oldest climbing kiln in Japan is fired up, marking the preservation of the age-old tradition as well as the growing confidence to evolve further. Tamba pottery is not only made for modern life, but also embodies the authentic craftsmanship built over 800 years of history.

Incense

P-07 - 09

Daily

A Standard for Daily Uses

Items are loved for centuries when they are created under the concept of "use", whether that be part of your everyday life or indeed just cultural. This is exactly why we have redesigned standard everyday items into products that are both easier and simple to use in sizes and portions, with designs that you want to keep beside you at all times. We recreate what already exists into something better. Enjoy your "Daily" life with something simple yet timeless. Have a nice day.

Lacquerware

P-12 - 15

Lr

Handcrafted wooden tableware for your home

Lr is a lifestyle product brand born from the skills of woodworkers in Sabae, Fukui - which is known as the home of Japanese lacquerware. Each product is carefully made by hand by craftsmen, with close attention to detail. Easy to use, beautiful to look at, and pleasant to the touch - Lr aims to enrich your daily life.

Picnic Sheet

P-16

CITON

A picnic sheet that brings you closer to nature

This is a picnic sheet made from washi paper, one that is specifically produced in the Echizen region of Japan. Leveraging the processing techniques of Japanese paper, the result is a material with a unique texture that is comfortable to sit on and soft to the touch. Furthermore, it is highly durable, resistant to water and dirt, as well as easy to clean. Coming in three gentle colors, the picnic sheet is at home anywhere – whether by the mountain or sea, in parks or the city. We hope this can be a paper that can be a “social good”, connecting makers, users, the production region, and nature.

Ornaments

P-18

Echizen Sukiko

Gentle and charming souvenirs from Echizen

These Sukiko ornaments are crafted by shaping washi paper while it is still damp and freshly made. Designed in the form of animals connected to the Echizen region, they capture the soft texture of paper and exude a uniquely endearing charm. Lightweight and delicate, they make for a perfect new souvenir from this historic washi-making area.

Table Mat

P-17

TETON

Washi That Defies Water and Oil Meet the TETON Table Mat

Meet TETON, a water- and oil-repellent washi table mat made in Echizen, Japan - a region with over 1,500 years of papermaking tradition.

Developed by SHIMIZU SHIKOH, a specialist in washi processing, TETON features a natural crinkled texture, two versatile sizes, and a rollable, reusable design for everyday living.

Durable, tear-resistant, and easy to care for — it's a sustainable twist on a timeless material.

Interior Objects

P-19

KIOKU

Capturing everyday memories in washi

KIOKU is a collection of interior pieces that recreate familiar objects from our memories using washi paper. Inspired by nature, each piece—whether a stone resting in a river or the stem of a kôzo plant—is carefully wrapped in washi to highlight the intricate details of the material. Designed as decorative accents for any space, the stone pieces can also serve as paperweights, while the branch pieces can be used as bud vases or diffusers, offering both beauty and functionality.

Stationery

P-20

FOLDER PRODUCTS

For writing, transcribing, or carefully recording notes.

Transforming objects you normally have to use, into objects that you always want to use. Based on the theme of “binding”, Folder Products is a stationery brand that keeps your important documents organized yet stylish – bringing joy to your everyday work.

Apparel

megulu

めぐり
めぐる
布たち

Explore the journey of textiles.

From Nishiwaki City in Hyogo Prefecture, renowned for its pre-dyed fabric, to Fukuyama City in Hiroshima Prefecture, Japan's largest denim production hub. Utilizing vintage deadstock textiles made in these regions, each piece is transformed into wearable forms, seamlessly integrating into someone's daily life. Witness a new story born from fabrics that may never be replicated again, stitched and delivered to the wearer – giving birth to a unique tale of serendipity.

Wooden Tableware

P-21

MORI NO UTSUWA

Crafting tableware with a view of the forest.

Japan's forests boast diverse vegetation, with each step in their lush expanse sparking vivid imagery. This inspired the concept behind Mori no Utsuwa's "tableware with a view of the forest." Pondering over the trees rooted in these woods led to questions about what kind of climates and terrains gave life to these trees. About who tended to them, safeguarding the forest.

The goal is to get people to wonder about those who call these forests home. To honor this connection, the latitude and longitude of where the timber used in each product was laser-engraved onto the bottom of each piece. The aim? To create a new cycle of life, designing tableware that connects us all together.

Apparel

P-23

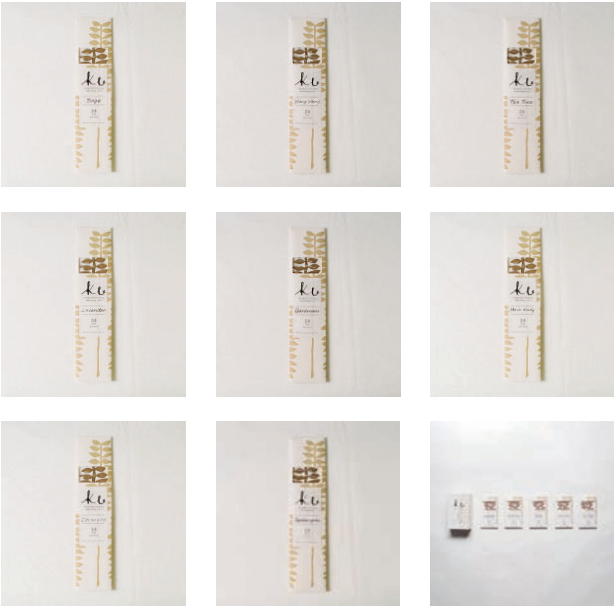

megulu Bingo-denim

Explore the journey of textiles

These garden pants are made from fabric woven in Fukuyama City, Hiroshima Prefecture, Japan's largest denim production area. As you wear them, you can enjoy the process of them becoming your own as they fade and develop character.

After a year, each pair will have a different look depending on the person wearing them, allowing you to enjoy the unique “growing” process of denim.

※Please Note: The Unique Qualities of Handmade Pottery

● About Size and Shape

Each piece is handmade using natural materials, so slight variations in size and weight may occur. The listed dimensions are approximate (generally with a margin of $\pm 5\text{mm}$; for larger pieces such as PLATE L and LL, up to $\pm 10\text{mm}$ variation is possible).

You may also notice subtle differences in shape—these are part of the charm of handmade pottery. We invite you to enjoy the individuality that arises from natural materials and the artisan's craftsmanship.

● About Glaze and Color Variations

Because each piece is handmade and glazed using natural materials, the color and texture may vary depending on how the glaze adheres during firing.

These differences are part of each piece's character and are to be appreciated as unique expressions.

Please note that for items like SOBA CHOKO cups, glaze color and luster may differ depending on the firing batch. While we will do our best to deliver items with similar coloring, variations may occur depending on timing and availability. Thank you for your understanding.

● About "crawling glaze"

Crawling glaze refers to fine lines or cracks that may appear on the glaze surface during the cooling process after firing. This occurs due to differences in the shrinkage rate between the clay body and the glaze—especially between soft clay and glassy glaze—and is a natural characteristic of pottery.

These lines do not affect functionality and are perfectly safe for use. In fact, crawling in glaze deepens over time, creating a unique patina. We encourage you to enjoy the changes that come with continued use.

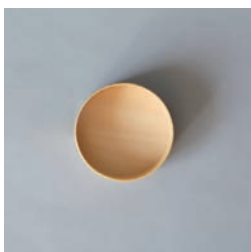

● About Black Spots and Pinholes

You may notice small black spots or tiny holes (known as pinholes) on the surface. These are natural occurrences resulting from the minerals in the clay or conditions during firing.

- Black spots: Caused by iron in the clay oxidizing during firing.
- Pinholes: Small indentations that occur when organic material in the clay burns off during firing.

These are not defects and do not affect the functionality of the piece. They are part of what makes each item uniquely shaped by its materials and environment. Please enjoy them as one-of-a-kind features of handcrafted pottery.

Please Note: The Unique Qualities of Lacquer

● About lacquer color

The colour of fuki-urushi (wiped lacquer) products may vary depending on the season in which the lacquer is applied. This is a natural characteristic of the materials used, so please enjoy it as part of the product's uniqueness. (Please note that you cannot choose the colour, and that the end colour may differ slightly from product photos.)

● About lacquer-induced rashes

In rare cases, some individuals may get rashes from the lacquer if it has been applied just recently.

If you experience any irritation, please refrain from using the lacquer and consult a doctor.

● Repairing Kakumono Lacquerware

Kakumono are rectangular shaped lacquerware made by combining wooden pieces.

Over time, the products may deteriorate or be accidentally damaged through daily use.

However, they can be repaired by the maker (Inoue Toku Wood Work), so for further details, please contact the below email address directly.

Due to the unique characteristics of lacquer, the color and gloss may not look exactly the same as before it was repainted.

Please note that it may be difficult to repair certain items that are badly damaged, or to remove dents from products coated with fuku urushi.

megulu Towel

A towel reborn through the hands of Senshu.

For over 130 years, the waters and craftsmanship of Senshu have shaped towels that are softer, purer, and more enduring.

Now, forgotten fabrics find new life through that same tradition.

Dyed in the quiet tones of sea, forest, stone, and earth— each piece holds the memory of time and care.

To the touch, it feels both new and deeply familiar.

A gentle future, woven with the legacy of Senshu.
