INOUE TOKU WOOD WORK

Bringing Traditional Woodworking into Your Everyday Cup

Made using Inoue Toku Mokko's refined sashimono joinery technique, eight precisely joined wooden panels create a beautifully structured cup that is both elegant and stackable.

Ideal for coffee, tea, or even cold drinks, the wooden construction helps reduce condensation while providing a naturally warm and comfortable grip.

Beautiful whether in use or neatly stacked, each cup offers a quiet reminder of the warmth and craftsmanship of natural wood.

A Wooden Incense Stand Crafted from the Wood of Mt. Rokko

Designed and produced by TRUNK DESIGN using wood sourced from Mt. Rokko in Kobe, Japan, each incense stand is individually turned on a wood lathe, creating a soft, rounded silhouette that highlights the natural warmth and beauty of the material.

Though designed as a simple holder for incense, it brings a quiet presence to any space, transforming everyday moments into a calm ritual of fragrance and reflection.

Finished with natural oil, the surface preserves the wood's rich texture and tactile warmth while allowing its character to deepen beautifully over time.
